SPECIAL OFFERING FOR ADVENTIST FLOOD VICTIMS

Australian Seventh-day Adventists will be given the opportunity to help other Adventists impacted by the spate of disasters this summer, in most states.

A special offering will be collected in all Australian Seventh-day Adventist churches on Sabbath 29th January. It's likely to be the largest offering ever collected by the Adventist Church in Australia.

The offering is based on Scripture: "We should do good to everyone - especially to the family of believers" (Galatians 6:10).

"Some Adventists have lost homes and possessions during the worst floods in Queensland," said Pastor Chester Stanley, President of the Australian Union Conference in Melbourne.

"Other Adventists in Northern NSW and Victoria have also been affected by floods," he said.

Many have supported and continue to support ADRA which has already provided $100,000 in cash and support to the wider community.

"But we also have a responsibility to care for our own church members," the Union's Chief Financial Officer Kingsley Wood said. "This is an opportunity for all 55,000 adult members and their families to help their spiritual brothers and sisters."

Any excess collected in the special January 29 offering will be kept in trust to help church members in future natural disasters. "Often we are reactive, and we would like to at least seed a fund for the future, if the full offering is not needed immediately", he added.

This special offering is similar to one collected many years ago called the Believers Emergency Offering. "This offering is very much like that, and we are calling it the 'Australian Emergency Support Fund'" Kingsley Wood said.

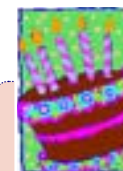

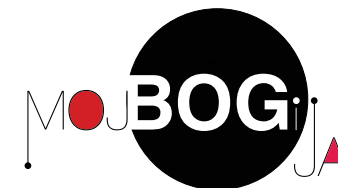

"In the future, this offering will be collected on a needs basis to keep a fund in place to help Adventists quickly and efficiently when disasters strike."

Church members will be able to give at church, or online through electronic giving.

ADRA Extends Response as Flood Waters Spread

As thousands more are evacuated from their homes across the country, the Adventist Development and Relief Agency (ADRA) Australia is responding to the national disaster unfolding in Queensland, New South Wales and Victoria.

A violent storm rolled over Brisbane yesterday hindering the cities clean-up efforts and drenching already flooded areas. Meanwhile, heavy rains in both north-western-Victoria and northern-New South Wales have forced thousands from their homes.

In Brisbane, ADRA volunteers were amongst the first on the ground to assist in the clean-up efforts. Members from Eight Mile Plains Seventh-day Adventist church, supported by ADRA, joined with thousands of volunteers to help remove layers of mud and debris from affected houses and businesses.

The Queensland Department of Community Services called on ADRA to staff five evacuation centres in Brisbane over the weekend. As needs continue to be assessed, it is expected that ADRA will continue to meet the needs of flood affected individuals and families by staffing a number of evacuation centres for up to three weeks.

In Gatton, ADRA project leader Ngairé Dare, along with a number of volunteers have been preparing hundreds of packed lunches for emergency service personnel sent into the area to search for missing people and to assist in the clean-up.

In northern-New South Wales, ADRA provided emergency accommodation for more than 450 evacuees from the townships of Boggabilla and Toomelah. Similarly, after an evacuation order was issued for the townships of Cowper, Brushgrove and Ulmarra ADRA volunteers have also assisted Community Services at an evacuation centre established in Grafton.

With the flood crisis in Victoria deteriorating overnight, ADRA Australia has been activated by Horsham Council to assist those presenting to the evacuation centre by providing food and clothing vouchers for the purchase of new items from local businesses.

In the past twelve months ADRA Australia has responded to numerous national emergencies including south NSW floods and the Lennox Head tornado, along with international disasters including the Haitian earthquake and Pakistan floods. ADRA Australia currently holds formal agreements to provide emergency accommodation during times of disaster in New South Wales, Australian Capital Territory, Queensland and Western Australia.

ADRA Australia is a Christian humanitarian organisation which implements a wide range of development and emergency response programs at home and overseas. ADRA Australia works with people in poverty and distress to create just and positive change through empowering partnerships and responsible action.
